Are you at risk of being in the crossfire?

In 2017 4.5 million U.S. homes were identified at high or extreme risk of wildfire

Our emergency services have a lot of trouble evacuating people because we often underestimate the gravity of the situation and are not prepared for evacuation
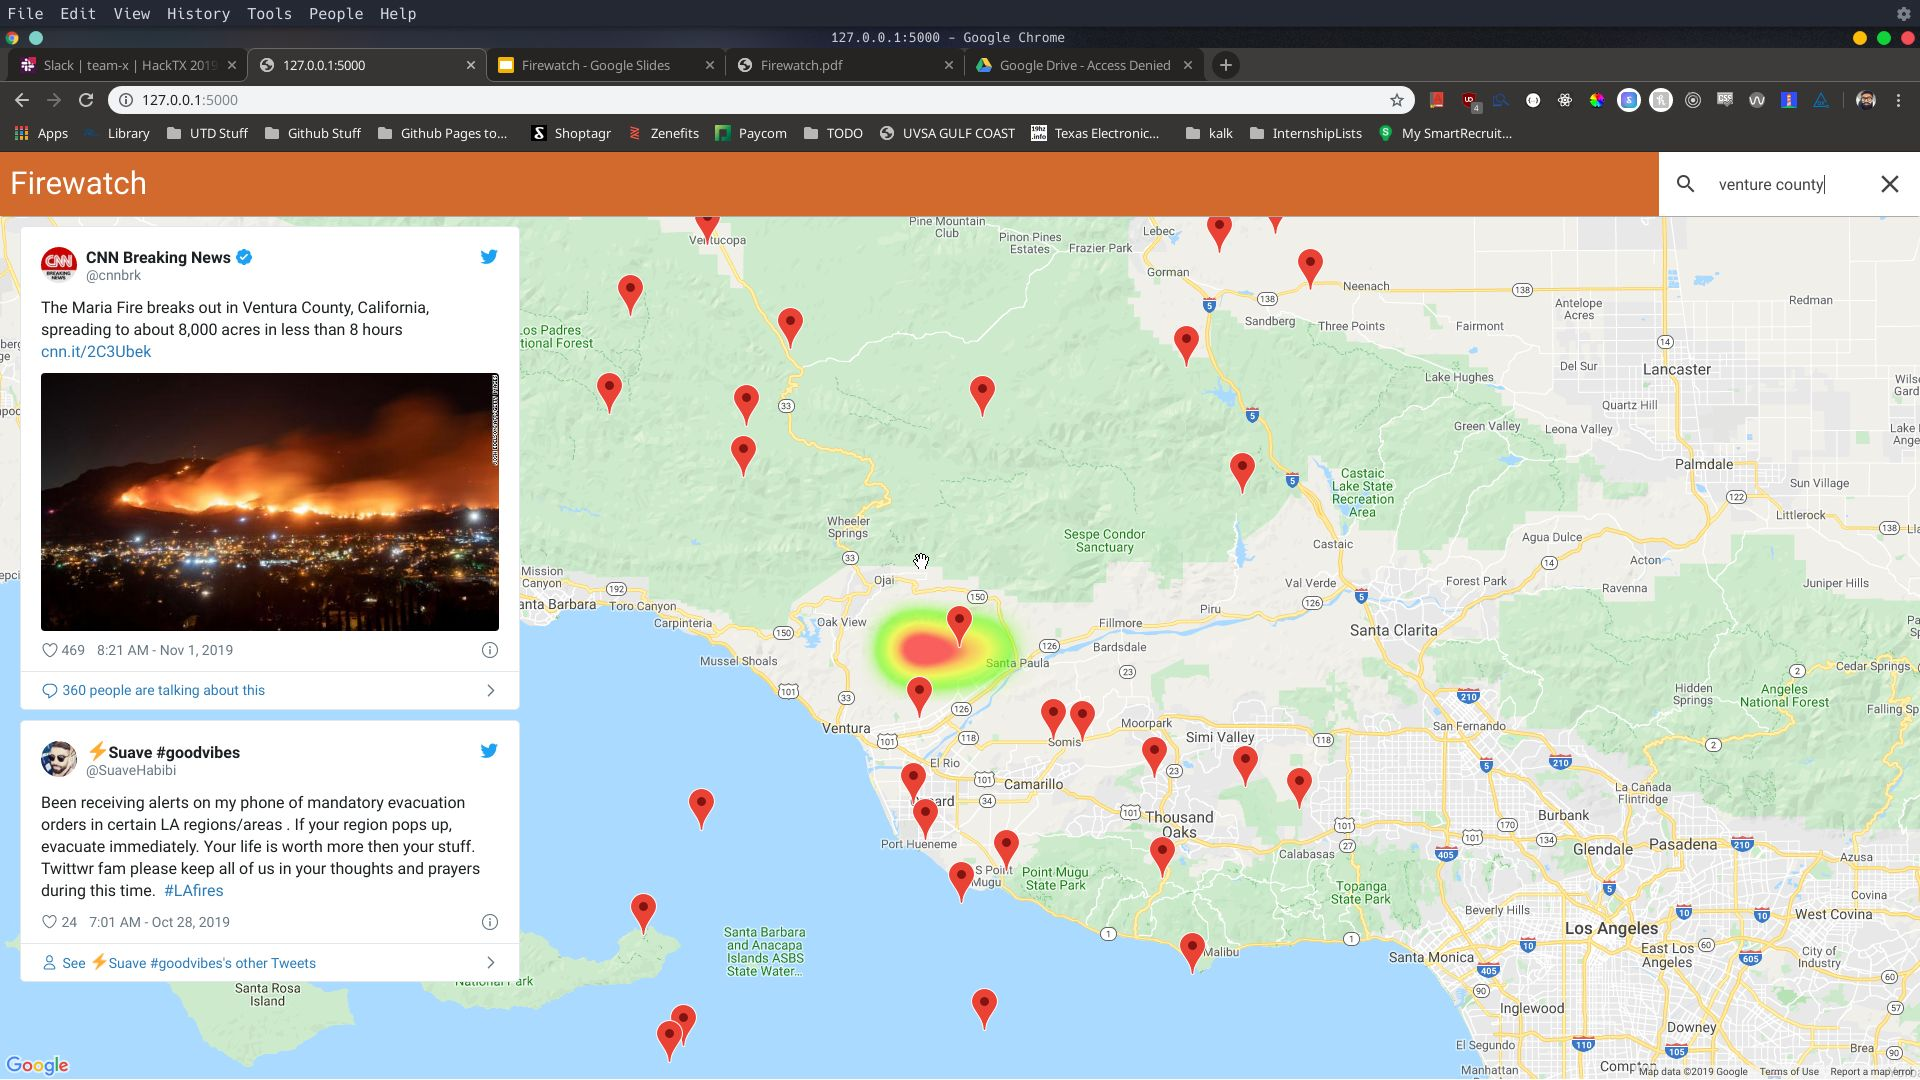

How do we help?

Can information help people get to safety faster?

We tell them when their area is likely to be hit

We connect them to evacuation and emergency services

We collect tweets from people in affected areas to get better real-time information
